

a

Identifiability, not capacity, is the limit

b

Confusion, held-out (0.983)

c

Degradation off-distribution

Synthetic play only, where the strategy that generated each trajectory is known. The shaded gap in a is everything the network leaves on the table, and it never exceeds 0.010: the curve's shape is set by identifiability -- distinct strategies that produced identical play -- not by the model, and no method can lift it. Frontier games are 10 rounds, the right-hand end of a.